Top Tips for Supporting your Child in School A Guide for Parents

Children can achieve well at school when their family and friends take an interest in their school and schoolwork. Getting involved in your child's education, even in the simplest way, shows that you care about their school life. Often, the more supported a child feels at home, the more effectively she or he will learn at school. Whatever your lifestyle, or family situation, it is never too soon (or too late) to start helping a child develop a positive attitude towards learning.

Help your child get the best out of school

- ◆ Give encouragement and show appreciation of your child's achievements—this will boost their confidence
- ◆ Try to teach them necessary organisation skills and how to manage their time so they are not overwhelmed with projects or homework
- ◆ Be realistic and avoid putting your child under pressure by having over-high expectations
- ◆ Try to give feedback rather than criticism, e.g. saying 'that didn't seem to work' rather than 'you got it wrong'. This helps them think about where they went wrong rather than feel a failure.

Tips to help you keep up with what's happening at the school

- ◆ Make sure your child gives you any letters that are sent home
- ◆ Look out for notices and posters for parents
- ◆ If you can, check the school website
- ◆ Try to make it to the fun events, like school fairs, and to parents' evenings
